

Our web pages into websites over the next few weeks. As students wrap up their webpage project this week, I've encouraged them to use the extra time working on their Math hyperdoc for Mr. Ace's class.

Ms. Vasquez - Hello Families :-)) This week in School Counseling we practiced collaborative conversations some more. We were in preparation for our Panel style discussion with students from the Pueblo College Preparatory Academy on Thursday morning. As a whole class we viewed the three student voice videos on Pueblo's Academy webpage, pausing in between so students could formulate one follow-up question per video that they would want to ask. Then students worked together in breakout groups to formulate a question bank. They came up with some Really insightful inquiries and some fun light-hearted questions about High School classes, Asynch time, online learning this year, sports, free time, managing schedules, and more. Finally, we reviewed all the questions they'd formulated and students voted for their top 8 questions to ask our guest at Thursday's morning meeting. Please view the video's for yourself at the link above and ask your student what they learned from their visit with our High School student guests this week.

Warmly,

Kamren Taravati
